PRESS RELEASE

National Book Trust, India to Accept RTI Applications Online

The National Book Trust, India (NBT) has now gone online to provide accessibility to applicants to file RTI applications online through the national RTI portal <https://rtionline.gov.in>. In an event organized at its premises in Vasant Kunj, New Delhi last evening at NBT Hqtrs to create understanding of the online RTI portal among the NBT employees, Shri Baldeo Bhai Sharma, Chairman, NBT said that for the benefit of the citizens of India and to redress public grievances, Right to Information (RTI) facility was initiated by the Government of India. Shri Sharma hoped that the online portal would help NBT to forward information to the applicants across the country who wish to gather information regarding the activities of the Trust.

Shri Ashish Agnihotri, RTI Monitoring Unit, Department of Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT), gave a presentation on the online portal of RTI. He said that as part of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi's vision for digitization in India, the RTI facility has been made online and DoPT is making efforts to connect all the public authorities with the online portal.

He added that this user friendly portal would make the process of RTI applications easy for the applicants as well as the public authorities. He also talked about the drawbacks of conventional method of processing the RTI which is time consuming and also complex. He further said that this environment friendly portal has many advantages including processing the payment of RTI fees, easy record maintenance, effective control and management among others.

About the RTI Portal
